Quotes:

Writers can survive everything but a misprint. Stop the presses! Don't believe everything you hear or anything you read. The truth is rarely pure and never simple. There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about. If you can't say anything good about someone, sit right here by me.

Art should never try to be popular. The public should try to make itself artistic. It is through art, and through art only, that we can realize our perfection; through art and art only that we can shield ourselves from the sordid perils of actual existence. The public takes no interest in a work of art until it is told that the work in question is immoral.

The need of money is the root of all work. Anyone can do any amount of work, provided it isn't the work he is supposed to be doing at that moment. Work is the province of cattle. A dog teaches a boy fidelity, perseverance, and to turn around three times before lying down. Whenever I feel the need to exercise I sit down and wait until the feeling passes.

Great literature must spring from an upheaval in the author's soul. If that upheaval is not present then it must come from the works of any other author which happens to be handy and easily adapted. The only way to get rid of a temptation is to yield to it. A good many young writers make the mistake of enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, big enough for the manuscript to come back in. This is too much of a temptation to the editor. I can resist everything except temptation.
